PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Canada's environmental penalties are severe, escalating quickly from daily fines to criminal liability and full remediation costs. Non-compliance can trigger federal penalties of up to $25,000 per infraction and $1 million per day, plus criminal charges and full clean-up costs. With enforcement bodies already securing hundreds of millions of dollars through environmental penalties – and climate-related damages costing Canada approximately $25 billion annually – strict compliance is no longer optional. It is a strategic imperative for any organization committed to risk-managed, sustainable operations.

This certified program will equip you with the practical legal and regulatory expertise to confidently manage environmental compliance across Canada's increasingly complex multi-jurisdictional landscape. You will deepen your command of CEPA 2023 reforms, the Impact Assessment Act, provincial environmental assessment systems, and the emerging reforms under Bill C-5 and the Building Canada Act – empowering you to advance major projects and industrial operations with far greater regulatory confidence.

The program also delivers practical insight into the most consequential environmental and climate regulations, including the Fisheries Act, Species at Risk Act, carbon pricing systems, methane regulations, and Clean Fuel Regulations. You will build stronger capabilities to manage Indigenous consultation and UNDRIP obligations, navigate strategic permitting frameworks, and meet CSDS and OSFI B-15 climate disclosure requirements with the confidence and regulatory precision today's projects demand.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Through applied case studies and scenario-based exercises, you will gain expertise in carbon markets & offsets, GHG reporting systems, and climate-related litigation risks. This program will also help you strengthen environmental compliance, reduce greenwashing exposure, and implement more defensible permitting and environmental governance strategies across complex projects and operations.

Upon successful completion of the program, you will earn the Certification in Canada Environmental Law and Compliance. This industry-recognized certification validates your expertise in implementing robust environmental and climate governance frameworks and navigating complex environmental permitting systems – strengthening your credibility as a trusted leader in environmental compliance and regulatory management.

YOUR FACULTY DIRECTOR

Jason MacLean

Leading Voice in Canada's Environmental Law, Climate Governance, and Constitutional Regulation

Jason MacLean is a highly regarded environmental law authority, climate litigation specialist, and legal practitioner with nearly two decades of experience spanning environmental law, constitutional litigation, regulatory policy, and international dispute resolution. He currently serves on the faculty of the University of Victoria Faculty of Law and is an LLM candidate at the University of Chicago Law School. Jason is widely recognized for his leadership in climate and environmental litigation, including his role on the legal team in the landmark climate Charter case, La Rose v. Canada. His work has also been cited multiple times by the Supreme Court of Canada and the Alberta Court of Appeal in the Impact Assessment Act references, reflecting his profound influence on Canadian environmental jurisprudence.

Prior to academia, Jason practiced litigation and international arbitration at leading global firms including Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP and Shearman & Sterling LLP, and served as law clerk to Justice Marie Deschamps at the Supreme Court of Canada. He has also acted as a retained expert in major U.S. environmental and toxic tort litigation involving Roundup and PFAS “forever chemicals” cases. A prolific legal author with approximately 75 publications, Jason is an award-winning commentator whose work has appeared in leading publications including The Globe and Mail, Maclean's, and Policy Options.
