UK AND EU DANGEROUS GOODS REGULATIONS AND COMPLIANCE

Fully Accredited

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Though dangerous goods represent less than 5% of freight volumes across the UK and EU, they generate a disproportionate share of serious incidents and enforcement actions. Classification errors, packaging failures, labeling deficiencies, and documentation gaps—compounded by inconsistent compliance across road, rail, sea, and air transport modes—expose operators and senior management to substantial liabilities, regulatory penalties, and lasting reputational harm.

This certified training program will show you the advanced regulatory expertise and practical capability you need to master dangerous goods compliance across UK and EU jurisdictions. You'll develop comprehensive command of legal obligations under ADR (road), RID (rail), IMDG Code (sea), IATA/ICAO Technical Instructions (air), ADN (inland waterways), and UK Carriage of Dangerous Goods Regulations.

Throughout the program, you will gain technical competence across all core compliance areas, including dangerous goods classification, UN number assignment, packing groups, special provisions, packaging standards, marking and labelling, documentation, and compliant storage. You will also learn how to accurately interpret Safety Data Sheets and apply hazard communication and packaging rules consistently across multimodal transport operations.

Participants will also learn additional modules that address packaging selection, transport documentation, vehicle and container marking, segregation requirements, and storage and warehousing obligations under COMAH and HSG71. Beyond this, emergency preparedness, security controls for high-consequence dangerous goods, incident reporting, internal audits, and regulatory inspections are also comprehensively covered.
